This will leave three-fourths of the capital stock remaining in the treasury and available and under the control of the stockholders to meet any further requirements, though it is believed that none of this reserve stock will be required to put the company on a manufacturing and paying basis.

Superior Features. The strong features which mark the superiority of this gasoline engine are in the saving of fuel, greater thermal efficiency and less floor space. It will be available for automobile power, motor boats, for pumping water for irrigation, operating farm machinery and driving machinery of all kinds. Its simple construction and light weight will especially commend it for all purposes in isolated districts.

A Certain Success. Those who have seen the demonstration engine in operation and who have put the original capital into the company organized to put it on the market are enthusiastic of the certain success that will come in the future when the machine is ready to be offered to the public.

President Pitts, of the company expects to leave Bisbee on November 1 next, for Philadelphia where he will purchase the required machinery and install a plant for the manufacture of the Pitts straight motion, two cycle internal combustion engine.

Detailed information regarding the Pitts patents will be gladly furnished upon application to any of the selling agents, or by calling in person, or writing, to the general office which is located in L. W. Wallace's Real Estate office, Bisbee, Arizona, where models, drawings, and a fully equipped, marine type, heavy duty two cycle engine is on exhibition. (Advertisement.)

'THE PARISH PRIEST' TREAT FOR ORPHEUM

Every Man, Woman and Child Will Find This Comedy Drama Attractive

Tonight the Chapman, Meade Co., has for a treat for the theatre goes a beautiful Irish comedy drama entitled "The Parish Priest," a play every man, woman and child should see no matter what his creed. The characters are not in the least overdrawn, and the comedy is good. Every piece of scenery for the play has been newly painted, and scenic artist Heister has been working overtime to make this a beautiful scenic production.

Will Chapman will be seen in the title role of the white headed and fatherly Parish Priest, who has a kind word and open heart for all. Miss Meade is in a role well suited to her ability. Miss Mitchell will also be seen in a good role. Great pains have been executed to make the cast a great success. Tomorrow night, the K. C. has another benefit. The bill for the remainder of the week will be "The Man on the Box." (Advertisement.)

SUPERVISORS WILL MEET IN PHOENIX

Chairman Gus Hickey Is Leaving This Morning to Attend

Members of the boards of supervisors in all of the counties of the state have been invited to two important conferences to be held in Phoenix this week. One is a conference on Monday in which the members of the state tax commission, county supervisors and representatives of mining companies in the state will participate. The object of this meeting is to discuss the question of the necessity for some fixed and definite system for the assessment of mining property in the state.

Another meeting is to be held by county supervisors only on October 30th when general matters affecting county government will be discussed.

Chairman Hickey stated yesterday afternoon that it was his purpose in Phoenix to find out the status of the action of the board of supervisors in this county in putting the assessment on Cochise county mines at what was considered a just and fair basis, as compared with the assessment of other mining property of the state. It has been claimed that the suit will effect the Yavapai county assessment of the United Verde mine would reach the act of the Cochise county board. Mr. Hickey is anxious to find where he is at in this matter and will try to find out in Phoenix.

It is the opinion of Mr. Hickey that if county boards of supervisors have no voice in assessments then the future work of assessing and collecting the revenues should be turned over to the tax commission.

COMPULSORY SCHOOL LAW NOW PROTESTED

Circumstances Require Widow to Keep Children at Work to Aid Her

In their zeal for education the legislators of the session of the Arizona legislature overshot the mark in the compulsory school attendance law in that it failed to provide for a certain contingency or to take into consideration that certain circumstances might exist that would justify the keeping of children of compulsory school age from school.

Such a case has been brought to the attention of local officers, and the only solution appears to be merely to overlook the case. In this case the parent, who is the widowed mother of several children of school age, notified the officers that she was ill and had no support other than her children and put the authorities on notice that she would keep them from school and thereby keep the family from starving.

Officers investigated the case and found the condition of the family was truthfully stated by the mother and so far they have taken no action with reference to the violation of the law.

The school law fails to provide for such a case and in this instance the letter of the law is being violated, but to enforce such a case would not only be a hardship but an inhumane act and public opinion undoubtedly supports the "winking of the eye" of the law in such a case.

The question had been brought up before and had been asked of School Superintendent C. F. Philbrook but he had no answer for it except that the law made no exception of such cases and that, apparently, it was up to local authorities to use their judgment and discretion. This is what has been done in at least one case.

Children Must Go to School. The law assumes that there are no cases in which the keeping of children from 8 to 16 years of age from school is warranted and it makes it a misdemeanor for a parent to keep a child of such age from school, but to enforce such a case has arisen within a month after the law went into effect shows that the zeal of the legislators who drew up the law was not accompanied by catholicism of understanding and it is likely that the law will be amended, restricting its operation as to cases like the one instanced.

The case in point, by the way, has been placed in the hands of the charity committee of the board of trade and a way may be found to keep the children in school without discomfort to the family. The family is one that is respected and the surviving family of a former official of Cochise county.

work, but only in a small way. Joe McCabe recently installed some machinery on a property he is developing and which promises to become a producer. A tunnel is being run to cut a ledge from which ore was encountered on the surface.

It is the opinion of Mr. Fletcher that the Huachuca will yet be the scene of profitable mining and that the foothills will become an important agricultural section of Cochise county.

IS FOUND GUILTY OF SHOOTING TWO DEER

Resident of Douglas Fined $50 for Killing Game Out of Season

In an action recently brought in the justice court at Douglas against E. C. Willis for illegal killing of two deer before the opening of the season, the defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $50 which he paid.

E. C. Willis who is a resident of Douglas, at the time he killed the deer was camped with a number of friends in Morse Canyon on the west side of the Chiricahua Mountains.

Killed with Single Shot. The defendant alleges that while out hunting squirrels and doves, for which a high power rifle seems to have been employed, he suddenly came across two deer which according to his statement he killed with a single shot.

Later he and several of his friends were arrested by an officer of the Chiricahua national forest who referred the matter to County Attorney Gilmore, by whom the action was initiated which resulted in the conviction of the defendant.
